“ My reasons for being a member? I and Able Australia benefit from being a member of Dbl through the connections that we have made in this international community of experts. The Board is extremely supportive of new individual and organisational members and as a relative newcomer to Dbl I have felt welcomed and included in all communications. I could recommend membership of Dbl to anyone who is Deafblind or is supporting people with Deafblindness. You will be kept up to date with all developments in the world of Deafblindness and also have the opportunity to contribute and benefit from an international body of expertise.

— Kate McRae

Chief Executive Officer , Able Australia – May 12, 2020

“ My reason for being a member? When working with deafblind issues, it is very important to collaborate with other organizations in the field. So please, join us!

— Lena Göransson

Head of Operations , National Resource Center for Deafblindness, Sweden – May 12, 2020

“ My reason for being a member? Because we all want to make a real difference for people with deafblindness worldwide. And that means Africa and Ethiopia, too. Are you joining us?

— Roman Mesfin

Director, Ethiopian National Association of Deafblind ENADB, Ethiopia – May 12, 2020

“ My reasons for being a member? For ONCE, as a service provider in Spain for deafblind people, it is essential to be able to improve our competence in deafblindness and for this it is very important to share the experience, collaborating internationally and increasing the impact of Dbl. Do you join us?

— Eugenio Romero Rey

Deafblind Coordinator , ONCE, Spain – May 12, 2020

Deafblind International DbI is all about connecting: It is THE point of connection in deafblindness worldwide.

Corporate members provide the foundation for the work of DbI and play the key role in its direction and management.

The membership fee depends on the size of your organization. Being a corporate member of DbI means enjoying all benefits of individual members AND:

- Having a chance to be directly involved in DbI's management and development as an elected member of the Board and/or of one of its committees

- Cooperating with other specialized organizations on an international level for awareness and recognition of deafblindness as a unique and distinct disability, for inclusion, quality services, the needed specialized competence of the professionals, focused research and further improvements in assistive technology
- Learning from and with other specialized organizations for your own
- Presenting your organization during DbI conferences in a booth provided free of charge
